SUNDAY MORNING, REC, 21,1862.

If Mr. W. H. H. ALDRICH will call at this office, he will learn something to his interest.

JOB WORK AND MILITARY BLANKS .-We refer our readers to our advertisement on the fourth page. They will find it to their interest to call on us.

FIRE.-A fire broke out last night, at about 11 1/2 o'clock, on Union street, near Market. The engines were promptly on the ground, and the flames were extinguished before any considerable amount of damage was done.

To THE LADIES .- We are informed that the Military Police of this city have adopted a rule to examine all females passing through the lines, who may be suspected of carrying contraband goods, letters, &c. The practice has become so common, that they have deemed it absolutely necessary to adopt this course. We understand some cases of the above character transpired yesterday, and we would warn all females to avoid anything of the kind in the future, if they would escape expesure. We understand they have employed ladies for the purpose of examining any who may be suspected.

Use LESS GAS .- In the name of the Secretary of the Gas Light Company we request our citizens to use as little Gas Light as possible—the supply of coal will not run the works much longer, and unless coal can be had from Louisville the Gas Works must stop certainly and rise with a large number of barges, but that very soon.

RELIGIOUS NOTICE .- There will be public worship at the Post Chapel, (Cherry Street Baptist Church) corner of Cherry and Elm streets, this day at 10 o'clock A. M., and 616 o'clock P. M.

Advertising a Business Institution.

The appearance of the newspaper press in most civilized countries would induce a casual observer to suppose that Advertising was a universally recognized and established business institution. In ordinary times, the press teems with advertisements, and appearances certainly indicate the free use of journals of large circulation as the great auxiliary of business enterprise. But appearances in this case, as in others, are not altogether true, for the fact is, that out of ten men doing business, probably there are not more than two who rightly value and liberally use advertising mediums; two more, per-haps, occasionally resort to them, while the rest rarely if ever employ them at all, and plod along in obscure circles of trade, pass through life without an effort to rise above the position in which circumstances originally placed them.

But there is something more to be considered on this subject. Experience has always shown to the conductors of newspapers that in periods of general depression, from whatever cause, all classes of men are rather disposed to yield to the depressing influence, than to rise up, encounter and resist it. Happily, there are individual exceptions, and it is these exeptions which finally aid the turns of affairs, and contribute to the restoration of property. But men, as represented by classes, shun the encounter, avoid the struggle, and if they do not actually succumb, sink down in hopeless prostration, for the time being. In nothing does this appear more distinctly than in the dismentioned below. tion in the advertising columns of the press; yet this is the very place, above all others, in which the active business man should constantly be seen and known, and read of all men.

COAL.-There is no probability that coal will be sold cheap in this market this winter. The quanity which will come here on the rise of the river, must fall far short of that usually imported. Coalnow sells in Louisville at eighteen and twenty cents per bushel, a great increase on former prices. The Journal of the 19th says:

It known that a fleet of tow boats, with coal, left Pittsburg on the recent it is said that it will all be needed for government use at Cairo and Memphis, and it is not probable that the consumers of coal in this city, will at all be benefitted by the large shipments of coal from the mining districts. It is said that it will require five million bushels to supply the immediate wants of the Gov-

We shall hardly see coal sell here this winter for less than fifty cents.

A paper manufacturer on the Kennebec informs the Portland Press that there is no lack of rags in Maine; that among those upon whom he has heretofore de pended for a supply he found one with ten tons, another with fifteen, another with five, and so on, but all hold back, refusing to sell, thinking to get, by and by, fifteen or twenty cents per pound.

With regard to the intermeddling of JEFF. Davis, on his way from Chat- England in our troubles, a Canada paper of the necessity of taking such quarsays,-"England is naturally cautious before she adopts a line of policy which may have the effect of turning myriads ces, and which might end in making Canuda what Virginia now is, a desert.
